DWeb Principles

These define the values of a decentralized web based on enabling agency of all peoples – the basis for behavioral norms and mutual accountability to bring about a more just and equitable world.

These stand alongside other acts of principles that share or expand upon these values, and originate from those involved with and convened by the Internet Archive's work on the decentralized web. This is a summarized version of the principles.

01. Technology for human agency

We stand for technology that enables people to be the primary beneficiaries of the web, upholding their privacy, security and self-determination.

We urge coexistence and interoperability of multiple technologies, value open source code as a fundamental building block, and aim for peer-to-peer relationships.

We minimize surveillance and manipulation of people's behaviors while optimizing for social benefits and empowerment.

02. Distributed benefits

The DWeb is most beneficial when rewards and recognition are shared.

03. Mutual respect

We support clear norms of conduct to ensure respectful behavior and accountability.

We stand for open and transparency in a manner that actively pursues equity and mutual trust.

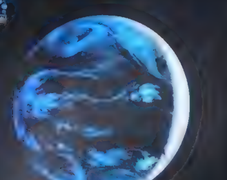

04. Humanity

The objective of the distributed web is to protect human rights, and empower peoples, particularly those facing systemic inequities.

We condemn use of distributed tools for activities antithetical to human rights.

We encourage the development of tools and applications in many languages and forms to ensure accessibility.

05. Ecological imperatives

We aim to minimize ecological hard and avoid technologies that worsen environmental health.

We work towards reducing energy consumption and device resource requirements, by allowing repair, recycling, and recovery.

CODE OF CONDUCT Consent is...

We expect all interactions at camp to follow these guidelines for consent.

Affirmative
Enthusiastic consent is the presence of a yes, not the absence of a no. All people involved in an activity have clearly expressed their agreement. Not Sure? ASK.

Informed
All parties have the info necessary for making a good decision.
If you initiate an interaction, it is your responsibility to get consent.
If anything changes, get consent again.

Specific
Consent for one thing does not equal consent for everything.
Make sure you understand their boundaries. Get consent again if you think you are near or passing those boundaries. If the boundaries are unclear, ask.

Competent
Everyone involved has the knowledge and judgement required for consent. Impaired people (drugs, alcohol, etc.) cannot consent. Be wary of power dynamics. Make sure people feel safe saying no.

Unpressured
Accept a "no" at face value and end the interaction. Do not pressure anyone or attempt to influence them. Give them time to think about it. MAYBE means NO.

Ongoing
Consent is not a contract. Consent must be present throughout any interaction and can be revoked at any time for any reason (or no reason at all). Check in frequently.

Code of Conduct At-a-Glance

If you experience or witness behavior that is not in line with our Code of Conduct, tell a Conduct Team Member (look for person with rainbow bandana or ask at info desk) or email ethics@archive.org.

Respect

→ Treat others with dignity and kindness regardless of gender, orientation, disability, appearance, race, age, religion. etc.

→ Make sure you have enthusiastic, ongoing consent in all interactions

→ Respect the privacy of others, and avoid photographing those with red lanyards

→ Follow Chatham House Rules when mentioned (neither the identity or the affiliation of any participant may be revealed)

Collaboration

→ Be open to new ideas and learn from others

→ Bring up your own ideas in conversations

→ In cases of strong disagreement, try to move on and stay focused on the goal of the discussion

→ Talk to people you haven't met yet

Inclusion

→ Rule of 1: Make 1 point and then let others speak

→ Rule of n: If there are n people in the group, speak 1/nth of the time

→ Be inclusive of people with other backgrounds

→ Avoid jargon or terms that may not be understood by the entire group

Communication

→ Avoid interrupting people

→ Be concise with your points and allow others to participate

→ In a misunderstanding, try to assume the most benign interpretation and then seek clarification

→ Address problematic speech or behavior when it occurs, if possible, even if it wasn't addressed to you

Be a Bridge
Build bridges, not moats.
Create radical connection to yourself, to your community, to the environment, and to the building of a better world.
You are a participant, not only a spectator. Share skills, knowledge, and experiences to span the unknown. Remember to leave space for others to join.
Be a community weaver. When you weave different materials together, you create a new whole. Weaving people together grows
a culture of acceptance
inclusion.

Take Care of
Each Other
We share a responsibility to care for each other, our Camp, and the planet. If someone needs assistance,
and help!
Joy of Missing
Out (JOMO)
At Camp, there is more than you can ever possibly experience in one day or one week. Be present and content with where you are at any given moment.
Instead of comparing your experience to that of others, accept your experience at Camp for what it is, not what you think it could have been.
Be intentional with your time and that of others.
Do not fret over time spent simply enjoying your stay.
